Last project meeting in Copenhagen

Last July 9th all the partners of the GreenELEMENT project met for the last time in Denmark, in Copenhagen, to discuss the last steps of the project and verify the state of the art of the activities a few weeks after the conclusion of the European initiative.

The last project meeting, hosted by the Danish partner (Danitacom - The Italian Chamber of Commerce in Denmark) in its offices, obviously also served to plan the latest activities (including in particular the national dissemination events) expected by the end of August, the conclusion date of this compelling and very interesting project dedicated to the development of green skills for business leaders.

During the meeting the staff of the Dutch organization Nefinia, coordinator of the project, showed the various partners an accurate report of all the activities carried out by the entire Erasmus + partnership and indicated, in agreement with the other members of the European consortium, the deadlines to be respected to produce an effective final report.

Furthermore, in specific video interviews conducted on the sidelines of the Danish meeting, all the partners declared themselves extremely satisfied with the results and products developed during the 2 years of project activity.

First multiplier events successfully developed in the GreenELEMENT project

The majority of partners of the consortium have already successfully developed, in their respective countries of origin, their own multiplier events, which in the Erasmus + programme, are promotion and dissemination events and contribute to spreading the project, transferring it to other geographical contexts and replicating it in other sectors.

The multiplier events of GreenELEMENT serve, in fact, to share the intellectual results of the project with a wider audience, further promoting the objectives planned since the beginning of the European initiative, developing an awareness campaign on the issues of environmental respect also for businesses and by supporting participation in our interesting online courses.
